Finnair to fly seasonally to Miami

By Johanna Jainchill

Finnair will offer nonstop flights between Helsinki and Miami, beginning next winter.

The seasonal flight will operate from Dec. 16 through March 21, on an Airbus A340.

The service will run twice a week until Jan. 3, when it increases to three days a week. Flight times are meant to allow for easy connections from cities in Finland, Estonia and Sweden.

"Finns love Miami and southern Florida, and there is a sizable Finnish expatriate community in the region," said Finnair CEO Pekka Vauramo. "At the same time, this new direct route also gives us the opportunity to develop Finland and Lapland as exotic winter tourism destinations for Americans."

Due to Finnair's Oneworld alliance membership, customers can mix and match flights with alliance partners American Airlines, British Airways and Iberia.
