

Match made in HEL: skateboard at Helsinki Airport

Posted on September 10th, 2014 by Harriet Baskas

Admit it: even if you're not a skateboarder, you've looked down those long airport corridors and thought about how cool it would be to cover those distances on a skateboard.

Now Finland's Helsinki Airport is going to give a select few skateboarders that chance. And more.

As part of a promotion highlighting the airport as a transfer point, on October 12 and 13 Finavia and Finnair are hosting the Match made in HEL skateboarding invitational – which will turn the airport over to Finnish professional skateboarder Arto Saari and skateboarders from Asia and Europe.

Want to join them? Skateboarders can apply by sharing their skate videos at matchmadeinHEL.com and four will be chosen.

I'm starting lessons now....
