Finavia, operator of Finland's airports and air navigation systems, is introducing GoSleep sleeping pods at Helsinki Airport, Finnair's hub.

Helsinki the first European airport to offer this service, Finavia said in a release.

A GoSleep sleeping pod is an ergonomic seat that can be turned into a bed, where passengers can rest. Customers can store hand luggage under the seat and pull up a cover that will isolate them from light and noise. The seat also has a power point for charging phones and laptops.
