Conde Nast Traveler readers vote on the world's best international airlines (outside the U.S.), with several Middle Eastern and Asian carriers getting top marks for those long-haul flights around the globe. The no. 1 airline is no surprise, though...

20. Finnair

Overall Rating: 71.592

The fifth-oldest continually run airline, Finnair has not had an accident since 1963 (knock on wood), earning it a stellar safety rating along with high marks for great customer service. It is the major carrier for Finland, and also over serves more than 60 European and 13 Asian markets. Finnair has a playful side as well, and has incorporated poppy Marimekko designs—a Finnish brand—into its tableware and cabin-crew wear.
