

Sign In | Subscribe

THE SACRAMENTO BEE

☰ FULL MENU

NEWS

SPORTS

ENTERTAINMENT

CLASSIFIEDS

TRAVEL

JUNE 27, 2016 1:00 AM

Travel deal: Exploring Inca ruins

HIGHLIGHTS

The deal: Due to new limitations on the number of tourists who can visit Machu Picchu, South American travel specialist JourneYou is offering a four-day trek to Choquequirao, a site located high in the Andes and a historic Inca archaeological site. Travelers will hike between six and nine hours a day, exploring ruins and learning about Peru's ancient history.

BY SOPHIA F. GOTTFRIED

The Record (Hackensack, N.J.)

The deal: Due to new limitations on the number of tourists who can visit Machu Picchu, South American travel specialist JourneYou is offering a four-day trek to Choquequirao, a site located high in the Andes and a historic Inca archaeological site. Travelers will hike between six and nine hours a day, exploring ruins and learning about Peru's ancient history.

Cost: From $690 per person, based on double occupancy.

What's included: Professional bilingual guide; entrance to Choquequirao; private return transfers; most meals and snacks; cook and support staff; horses and handlers; camping equipment.

When: Departure dates customizable.

Information: Journeyou.com.