 Goway Travel offers an airfare deal from L.A. to New Zealand with a stopover in Hawaii starting at $1,075

MARCH 4, 2015, 7:30 AM

If you've never been to New Zealand (or even if you have), Goway Travel has a deal that's reason enough to go.

In fall and spring, L.A. travelers can fly to Auckland — with a stay in Hawaii too — starting at $1,075 per person.

The deal: Goway Travel makes an offer that's good on Hawaiian Airlines flights. It comes with the low round-trip price — starting at $1,075 per person — plus two nights at the Luana Waikiki Hotel and Suites in Honolulu. (The Hawaii stop comes on the return flight.)

The offer also is good from San Diego starting at $1,099; Seattle, Portland, Las Vegas or Phoenix starting at $1,122; and from New York City starting at $1,459.

It's based on two adults traveling together.

When: The offer is good until April 15, but seats are selling fast. Prices are based on availability, and blackout dates apply.

For this deal, travelers must fly between April 27 and June 16, and Oct. 12 and Nov. 5.

Tested: You can't book this deal directly online; you have to call or e-chat on the website to make a reservation.

To test the deal, I e-chatted with a Goway agent who found availability at the $1,075 price for flights leaving Los Angeles on Oct. 19 and returning Nov. 3. One caveat: You can't add a third person or fly solo on this deal; read the fine print on the website.
