Perillo's Learning Journeys, in partnership with Smithsonian Journeys, reports it is offering families an 11-day adventure exploring Venice, Florence, San Gimignano and Rome. Designed for children ages eight and older, this is an opportunity for multi-generational families to introduce their young ones to the rich history of Italy.

Families will have the chance to explore ancient cities, medieval towns and villages, as well as take part in various activities, from watching artisans mold glass masterpieces in Murano, to creating their very own Venetian Carneval masks, to attending a session of gladiator school in Rome.

Pricing begins at $4,999 per adult ($4,499 per child) and includes accommodation, meals as specified, tour guides and unique activities. Departures dates are available June 21st - July 1st or July 19th - 29th.

"Perillo's Learning Journeys is proud to partner with Smithsonian to offer Family Adventures," said Carol Dimopoulos, Learning Journeys' president. "We feel it's the perfect combination of experiences which last far beyond the travel experience. The hands-on and interactive nature of the program offers families the opportunity to bring their children's class learning to life. Travel experiences such as this can make the difference on college applications and scholarship opportunities."
