

TRAVEL

Tour Italian region rich in culture and food

By ROSEMARY MCCLURE SEP 25, 2018 | 7:00 AM

See the Castelvetro hills of the Emilia Romagna region of Italy on a cultural and culinary tour. (Shutterstock photo by Stefano Termanini)

If you're a foodie, car fanatic or music lover, get acquainted with Emilia Romagna, a region known for its medieval cities, rich gastronomy, beautiful Ferraris and seaside resorts. This nine-day cultural and culinary tour includes the restaurants of Bologna, the dairy farms of Parma and the artisan studios of Cremona. Other highlights include a look at the Ferrari Factory and Museum and a visit to the home of composer Giuseppe Verdi. Travelers will sample iconic foods in cities of origin and participate in the production processes.

Dates: Flexible

Price: From $3,199 per person, double occupancy. Includes accommodations with breakfast, a complimentary meal at Michelin three-star Osteria Franceseana (if trip booked by Oct. 31), seven guided tours, private tastings, a cooking class and other activities. International airfare not included.

Info: Zicasso, lat.ms/emiliaromagna