Game of Thrones has become such a part of our modern culture that not only has it taken over the world of fandom, it's also permeated into the restaurant industry, and the travel industry by way of incredible guided tours of locations made infamous by the show including GoT trips in Croatia and Ireland. And now the latest Game of Thrones experience for fans has taken to Spain for an 8 day adventure based around season 5.

Put together by Zicasso Handcrafted Travel, the Game of Thrones Spain tour covers all of your "soon-to-be favorite moments" from the freshly debuted season 5 in Madrid, Seville, Osuna, Ronda, and Granada. The dates are flexible, and anything can be customized, but the general 8 day itinerary starts in Madrid and includes visits to The Royal Palace, the magical and mysterious Sunspire, and the bullring which serves as a pinnacle battle scene in the new season, one which took over 12 days to shoot.

The package was curated with an overall vibe of luxury – they want you to feel like royalty. No actual crowns supplied. What is provided are private transfers by luxury vehicles, daily breakfast, accommodations, 1st class train ticket from Madrid to Seville, 4 private half-day guided tours, admission to UNESCO World Heritage Sites: Alhambra in Granada, Alcazar and Cathedral in Seville, Flamenco show in Granada, travel materials, and 24/7 phone assistance when needed.

The 4 star accommodation trip is $1,899 per person based on 2 travellers, while the 5 star trip is $2,399. Book your GoT journey in Spain here, and learn more here. Question is, can a plane outrun a dragon?
