

Zicasso Launches Foodie Tour of Germany's Black Forest

Heads up, foodies! Zicasso is offering a new itinerary through a distinct culinary center: Germany's Black Forest.

This eight-day culinary adventure includes seven five-course dining experiences at Michelin-rated restaurants (totaling 12 Michelin Stars, for those keeping count), three five-star accommodations, train transfers between cities, and a guided tour of Stuttgart's Christmas market and old town.

This itinerary is recommended for Christmas season travel in 2014 and 2015, but it's available all year round.

On the trip, guests can:

- > Dine at the 11-table Schwartzwaldstube and the eight-table Bareiss, each with three Michelin Stars
- > Discover why the Black Forest is currently the world's most exciting culinary center
- > Sample menus from famous TV chefs like Alfons Schuhbeck and Frank Oehler
- > Spend three days in Munich, exploring the architecture and artwork complemented by its popular Christmas market
- > Tour Stuttgart
- > Combine spa experiences with nature exploration in the Black Forest town of Baiersbronn, home to eight Michelin stars.
